Disconcerting.

A candidate for parliamentary honors was addressing a political meeting in the north of England, says Tit-Bits. Anxious to make friends with his audience, he began thus:

"Gen'l'men, I am very pleased to address a working-class constituency. It may interest you to know that I am a workingman myself—in fact, I often work when you are asleep."

"You must be a burglar, then!" said a voice at the back of the hall.

Like Letter "P."

Gibbs—Bilson expressed a good deal of sympathy for poor Blank. Did you try him for a contribution?

Dibbs—No. I know Bilson; he's like the letter "p"—first in pity and last in help.—Boston Transcript.

The Doctor—Madam, you must take more exercise. I should advise walking every day.

Mrs. Newlyriche—Walking. My dear doctor, you must be accustomed to attending poor people.—Philadelphia Record.

ANDERSON MAGISTRATE ON TRIAL IN FEDERAL COURT

Will McClure Charged With Peonage—Case Called at Greenwood Term.

News and Courier.

Greenwood, Nov. 16.—The federal district court resumed its session here today after a ten-day recess. The most important case on the docket, judging from the interest manifested by the number of visitors and witnesses from Anderson county, is the alleged peonage case against Magistrate Will McClure of the upper section of Anderson county. This case was called at 3 o'clock this afternoon, and will occupy the time of the court through tomorrow.

THE REV. R. C. HOLLAND DIED WEDNESDAY

Was Gallant Soldier, Able Minister and Active in Missionary Work. Once Studied Law.

The State.

The Rev. Robert C. Holland, D. D., one of the most prominent leaders of the Lutheran church in the South, died late Wednesday afternoon at the Baptist hospital, where he had been ill about ten days. Recently he became ill with typhoid fever, developing pneumonia also.

The funeral services will be held in the Lutheran Church of the Ascension tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The funeral party left over the Southern railway at 4:25 o'clock for Salem, Va., where interment is to take place. The body will remain at Hill Crest, his late residence in Eau Claire, until the hour for the funeral Thursday afternoon.

He was about 75 years of age. Dr. Holland was the son of Capt. R. H. Holland and was born at Mt. Tabor, Augusta county, Virginia, in 1840 near the original location of Roanoke college, from which institution he was graduated after its removal to Salem, Va.

Upon the outbreak of the War Between the Sections he volunteered in Pickett's brigade under Longstreet and Lee. He was a brave and gallant soldier and served with distinction as a private. He was wounded at the battle of Manassas in 1862. He was more severely wounded in Pickett's charge at Seminary Ridge in the battle of Gettysburg. He was captured and remained a prisoner until December, 1863. His wounds necessitated his parole, and he was transferred to the hospital at the University of Virginia, where he studied law. But the outbreak of the university was interrupted by the appearance of federal troops. However he practiced law a short time, but subsequently relinquished this profession and began the study of the ministry.

Served Many Pastorates.

He was ordained in 1868 and his first pastorate was the oldest Lutheran congregation in the South—Hebron church, Madison county, Virginia. Thence he became pastor of St. Peter's church, Shepherdstown, W. Va. From Shepherdstown he was called to become vice president of Roanoke college as the colleague of the Rev. Daniel F. Bittle, D. D., the founder of the institution. In connection with his office as vice president he also filled the chair of ancient languages and literature. It was during this period in his life as an educator that he participated on October 17, 1879, in the inauguration ceremonies of Dr. Julius D. Dreher, who succeeded to the office as president of Roanoke college after the death of Dr. Bittle.

Again entering the active work of the ministry, he accepted a call to St. John's church, Martinsburg, W. Va., which he served until the call came to him to become pastor of St. Andrew's church, Charleston. Thence he was called to St. Mark's church, Charlotte, N. C.

While serving as pastor at Charlotte in 1904 he was elected a member of the board of missions of the United Synod of the Lutheran church in the South. The board elected him as its president and he performed the arduous and responsible duties of the office in connection with his pastorate at a time when the home and foreign work of the synod was conducted by one board. Four years later, when the work was divided, he was elected president of the board of foreign missions. Several years ago he relinquished entirely the duties of the pastorate and devoted his whole time to the presidency of the board of foreign missions, removing from Salem, Va., to Columbia and making this city his headquarters.

An Active Mission Worker.

No minister of the Lutheran church in America was a more earnest advocate or supporter of foreign missions. Dr. Holland devoted practically his whole energy to the direction of the foreign mission work of his church. He had the satisfaction of seeing much work accomplished in the province of Kyushu, Japan, where the Southern synod is operating in the foreign field, the chief work during his administration being the building of Kyushu Kakuin, or mission school, at Kumamoto, at a cost of about $60,000.

United synod had previously imposed other great trusts upon him. Another important work which was accomplished under his wise and judicious management was the raising of an endowment fund of $30,000 for the theological seminary. This fund was called "The Century Memorial Endowment Fund," at his suggestion. He considered it an appropriate way to signalize the beginning of the 20th century, at which the work of raising the endowment was inaugurated and soon carried forward to success at a critical period in the history of the seminary.

Dr. Holland was a fine type of Southern gentleman, a strong man intellectually, eloquent as a pulpit orator and ranked high as minister and pastor.

He was a leader of men and his mastery of strong policies and his splendid administrative ability were prominent characteristics in his work as minister, preacher and pastor. His readiness to grasp the points of invincibility on matters which demanded quick action were marvelously successful when the occasion demanded his adherence and support in any great and momentous cause. He seemed never to have forgotten the training of the soldier on the field of battle. Duty ever found in Dr. Holland a ready obedience to all her calls. His integrity, his strong personality, his faith in the great cause which he made his life work all entered into the character of this great and good man.

"The Last of the Family."

He is the last survivor of his immediate family. His brother, the Rev. George W. Holland, was president of Newberry college in 1877-95, and died at Newberry on September 30, 1895.

Another brother, the late Prof. L. R. Holland, also connected at one time with Roanoke college, was the father of Mrs. J. A. Rahn of Columbia. Mrs. George W. Holland of Newberry was present when he died.

He was twice married and is survived by his second wife, who was Miss McClanahan of Salem, Va. Mrs. Holland's brother, Rev. George W. McClanahan, pastor of St. Mathew's Lutheran church, Wilmington, N. C., is ill at his home there.

Dr. Holland was to perform the marriage ceremony of his brother-in-law, the Rev. Mr. McClanahan, in Wilmington one day next week. The illness of Dr. Holland made a change necessary and yesterday was appointed for the Rev. Mr. McClanahan to accompany his fiancée to Columbia, where Dr. Holland would be able, it was thought, to officiate on the occasion. The illness of the Rev. Mr. McClanahan made it necessary to postpone the wedding indefinitely.

DANGER TO SERBIANS

BECOMES MORE ACUTE

Army's Position Daily Growing Worse as Invaders Press in Attitude of Greece Again to Front.

The critical situation of the Serbian army daily is becoming more acute. In the north the line of the invaders is pushing the Serbs and their Montenegrin allies farther and farther west, and it would appear that their only avenues of escape now lead into eastern Montenegro and northern Albania.

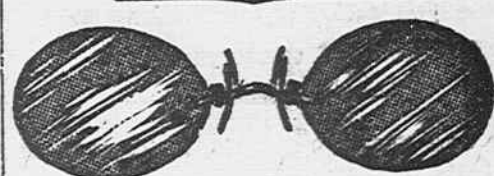

In the south, if as unofficial reports have it, Monastir has fallen to the Bulgarians the Servians must, in the face of the great odds against them, either cross the Greek border or enter southeastern Albania.

To the east, in the extreme southern part of the mountain kingdom, the Bulgarians have been on the offensive against the French in the vicinity of Strumitza, but Paris says they were repulsed with heavy casualties. Nothing is known of the operations of the British in the southern region against the Bulgarians.

Whether the Greeks will permit the Servians in retreat from Monastir to enter their territory without being interned or whether the Anglo-French forces would be allowed to do so if pushed back by the Bulgarians, has not become known.

Official communications issued by the various war chancelleries mention no engagements of noteworthy importance, except the advance in Serbia.

A dispatch to a London newspaper quotes the Russian premier as saying Russia intends to place millions of additional troops in the field and that there is necessity for redoubled efforts by the people to provide needful equipment and munitions.
